

Blues draw Swansea in Trophy

WANDERERS have been drawn away to League One Swansea City in the second round of the Johnstone Paints Football League Trophy.

The fixture which is set for either October 9 or 10 marks a quick return to South Wales for Wanderers' overlapping left back Tom Williams who left the Liberty Stadium in the summer.

● Manager Paul Lambert helped to launch Coca-Cola's Talent from Trash scheme to help encourage recycling.

The former Champions League winner is one of 13 bosses to give his backing to the scheme where fans can win up to £18,000 for the Chairboys to spend on youth development if they pledge to recycle more at www.talent-from-trash.co.uk.

● Wanderers could be set to change their tactics in a bid to boost up the table.

Writing in last week's matchday programme against Brentford manager Paul Lambert said that the team may have to play a more direct style than they have been doing so far.

● Fans from all over England joined Blues supporters to celebrate Fans United Safe Standing Day at Adams Park, for last Sunday's Brentford match.

Lambert goes green:

Supporters from as far away as Newcastle, Wrexham, Cardiff and the north-west all came to the League Two game televised by Sky TV and stood with the Wycombe fans.
