Blues need you all now

Wanderers have only nine hours of league football left to make a late dash for an automatic promotion place. In that time they will have to overtake both Darlington and Hereford by overhauling a seven point gap, eight if you include goal difference.

Having been parked in fifth or sixth spot for the last few months this rapid change of gear seems highly unlikely. Especially as Wanderers' next two games are against Peterborough and MK Dons, the two teams battling to end the season as champions. That Football League fixture computer certainly didn't do Wanderers any favours!

These two matches could well decide the outcome of Wanderers' season. Win both and automatic promotion would still be possible, pick up three or four points and we should retain our play-off position. However, if we were to lose both games we could well find ourselves sitting outside the top seven sides.

With Rochdale winning in midweek, Chesterfield are now last of the eight clubs chasing a place amongst the magnificent seven. But, who will be the unlucky team at ten to five on May 3?

Paul Lambert has hopefully played his trump card in signing striker Delroy Facey. Blues' fans have waited a long time to see a "big, strong and quick" striker, let's hope he's the real deal. His record of 11 clubs at the age of 27 shows he doesn't stick anywhere too long and his strike rate of a goal every 3.58 games is hardly abundant. However, if he can do the business for Wanderers over the next six or nine games he could well have a more permanent home.

With Peterborough currently topping the table, the Posh army are bound to arrive in force on Saturday. Let's hope Wycombe locals can drag themselves away from Eden and get along to Adams Park to cheer on the Wanderers.

We know if we get to the play-off final at Wembley you will be able to find your way there, but the club needs your help and support now.
