

CLASS OF THEIR OWN

Unbeaten Wanderers leave Man Utd, Chelsea, Arsenal and Liverpool behind

WYCOMBE Wanderers are now the only unbeaten team in English professional football.

Peter Taylor's team made it an astonishing 14 league matches without defeat when they drew 0-0 away at Rotherham United on Saturday.

They had shared the honour of being Britain's only unbeaten side with Premiership giants Liverpool until the weekend.

But the Mersey men came a cropper when they conceded two late goals to go down 2-1 at Harry Redknapp's rejuvenated Tottenham Hotspur on Saturday evening to leave Wycombe standing out alone as Britain's only unbeaten side.

The Blues have won seven and drawn seven of their 14 opening league fixtures so far.

Their only defeats this season have come in cup competitions with first round exits to Championship title favourites Birmingham City in the League Cup and to League Two title favourites Shrewsbury

Town in the League Trophy.

And the Blues, who are chasing a club record of 21 league matches without defeat, will take that proud record into mid-November at least.

Because of the this weekend's FA Cup action when they face AFC Wimbledon in a first round clash on Monday, they don't play another league game until November 15 when Bradford City are the visitors to Adams Park.

Wanderers boss Peter Taylor said: "It's a fantastic achievement but it is still early in the season.

"I am not looking at records. I am only looking as far as the next game."

TOP OF THE TREE: Peter Taylor and his Wycombe team have got one up on John Terry, Christiano Ronaldo, Frank Lampard, Theo Walcott and Wayne Rooney by staying unbeaten in the league so far this season
