Waddock wins the battle of Wanderers' managers after decisions go his way

GARY Waddock won the battle of Wanderers' most recent managers putting one over his predecessor Peter Taylor in controversial circumstances at Adams Park on Saturday.

Waddock's Blues beat Taylor's Bradford City 1-0 with a controversial late Kevin Betsy goal that left Taylor fuming.

Taylor was incensed that the goal stood, claiming his team had stopped playing because the linesman was flagging for a foul.

And the City chief also criticised referee Mick Russell for not sending off Wycombe's Dave Winfield just two minutes after his own Tommy Doherty had been sent off for a similar off the ball offence in a stormy battle.
