

June Trust Update

Dear Trust Member,

I thought that when I sent out the June update we'd be clear how the season is going to end...but it seems like there is more discussion to come. It now looks like the proposal on how to end the season will be voted on next Monday, June 8th, and then training possibly starting on w/c June 15th. However there may be yet more twists to come, but it looks like we are edging towards clarity.

As you will have seen from tonight's message from Rob Couhig, the economic facts of life are extremely difficult right now, but the Trust Board are unanimous that Rob will get us through the current problems.

Closer to home, the face-mask initiative designed to raise funds for The Trust and the One Can Foundation has been a great success. Total mask sales are now virtually 1000 and we have raised approximately £2500 for the One Can Foundation and the same for the Trust. If you haven't got your mask yet, click this link and it will take you to our eBay site, where you can purchase one:

The main reason for sending this update is to let you know that we have today launched the new Trust website. It is modern, up to date, has great images and all the info you need to have as a Trust member. You can find out about the latest news on the Home page, about the Trust Board, recent Trust meetings, our eBay shop and lots more. Here's where you find it:

<http://www.4everblues.com> or <http://www.wycombewandererstrust.com>

Make sure you go to the new site and see for yourself.

Finally I hope you're all enjoying this fantastic late Spring weather, staying safe and like me looking forward to seeing some live football. Firstly the Premiership and eventually the bit that matters, League 1 and the Mighty Blues.

Regards
Nigel Kingston
