

Wanderers fans are advised by the Royal Mail that strike action could lead to delays in the delivery of orders from its online shop over the next fortnight.

Strike action is planned for 26th August, 31st August, 8th September and 9th September; Royal Mail has issued the following guidance for these days:

- We will deliver as many Special Delivery Guaranteed parcels as possible. We will prioritise and deliver as many Special Delivery Guaranteed items as resources allow. We cannot however guarantee delivery by 9am or 1pm next day, so we're making changes to our delivery guarantee for items posted from Thursday 25 August, up to and including items sent on Thursday 1 September. Customers will not be able to claim for delays to items during this period.*
- We will deliver as many Tracked 24 parcels as possible including prioritising delivery of Covid-19 test kits and medical prescription items wherever possible. However, significantly reduced resources mean there will be a delay to some Tracked 24 items during strike action.*
- On strike days, we will not be delivering letters (with exception of Special Delivery)*

Other items posted the day before, during strike action or on the days after any strike action will be subject to delay.
