

Matt Bloomfield has held talks with his out-of-contract players as preparations for the 2023/24 campaign continue.

Curtis Thompson departs Adams Park this summer following the expiration of his contract, while Lewis Wing and Nick Freeman have both taken the decision to pursue new opportunities elsewhere.

Also leaving the club are goalkeepers Tyla Dickinson and Josh Blunkell, defenders Jordan Willis and Ben Kaninda, midfielders Daryl Horgan and Adam Leathers, and forwards Charles Hagan and Arnold Matshazi.

Talks are ongoing with Dominic Gape, Jack Wakely and Jordan Obita, while Tjay De Barr recently signed a new deal with the club and remains at Adams Park for the new campaign.

Loan players Chem Campbell and Harvey Cartwright return to their parent clubs Wolverhampton Wanderers and Hull City respectively.

Manager Matt Bloomfield spoke to WanderersTV about his contract decisions on Wednesday, with the video to follow.

The club thanks those players who are leaving Wycombe Wanderers for their efforts throughout their time at Adams Park and wishes them every success for the future.
