

Ex-Liverpool forward Jordon Ibe has been seen training with National League side Chesterfield ahead of the new season.

The 27-year-old has been a free agent ever since leaving Turkish second division side Adanaspor last year.

Ibe did in fact make 58 appearances during his time with Liverpool, before leaving in a £15million deal to Bournemouth in 2016.

Having had loan spells at Birmingham and Derby, he joined the Rams permanently, but failed to hit the ground running at Pride Park.

Now moving to National League side Chesterfield, the winger was pictured with new signing Will Grigg on their Portugal training camp.

Fans have weighed in on his latest appearance and believe it is a great move for for him.

One fan said: "He was unreal when on loan at Derby, think he was struggling with mental health the last few years and it has halted his career. I hope he manages to get a full season in, thought he'd end up playing in the Prem. Hope he does well."

A second wrote: "So desperately wanted it to work out for Jordon when he returned to Derby. He's a player I genuinely feel for, really hope he finds his feet again and Chesterfield could be a great opportunity for him to flourish. He has such talent."

A third added: "Arm around him and some good man management he's an unreal signing for @ChesterfieldFC. Some quality business going on there. All the best for the upcoming season," while another commented: "Unreal at that level surely."

And a fourth also stated: "Good luck to the lad. Felt for him a little here, I know he had his mental health issues."
